A SHIP-LOAD OF DEATH.

NINE NEW CASES AND FOUR DEATHS AT MEMPHIS.

The Fever Reaches the Camps---Death in New Orleans of a Memphis Refugee.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 1.—The steamship Templar arrived here last night, 161 days out from Rio Janeiro, where she put in on her way from New York. While there she lost nine men from yellow fever. After sailing the fever broke out again and Captain Armstrong, his wife and daughter, the ship's carpenter and four or five sailors were attacked. Both ladies and two seamen died. Shortly afterward the chief mate fell overboard and was drowned. Several of the crew are still sick, and the ship has been disinfected and taken to the quarantine ground.

CHOLERA IN THE BRITISH ARMY.

LONDON, August 1.—This evening's Globe says: A private telegram received in London states that cholera is raging fearfully among the troops returning to India from Afghanistan. The Tenth Hussars lost forty men in one day, and the Seventh footmen one hundred and ninety-five men.

NINE NEW CASES.

MEMPHIS, August 1.—Nine new cases of fever were reported to the Board of Health this morning; among the number is Rev. Father Doyle, pastor of St. Bridgets Catholic church. Four additional cases not included in the above, are reported of persons residing beyond the city limits. Three deaths have occurred since last night, John Holly, Charles Bennett, Jr., and Tony Botto. Weather is clear and warm.

ONE DEATH IN NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, August 1.—No new cases of yellow fever have been reported. Louis E. Auiret, a child brought here sick from Morgan City, died of fever this morning at 105 Bourbon street.

Town on Fire.

HAMILTON, Ont., August 1.—A large fire is now in progress here. The McInness block has been totally destroyed. The Bank of Hamilton, Turner, Livingstone & Co., McInness & Co., and Hamilton, president of the Loan Association, have been burt out. The Merchant's Bank is also in flames, and it is feared that the whole block east will go.

First Bale of Cotton.

SAVANNAH, August 1.—The first bale of cotton of the new Georgia crop was received to-day by L. J. Guilmartin & Co., from Albany, Ga. It was classed as good ordinary and sold to W. S. Stetson for twenty cents.

THE REDUCED TAX YIELDS AN INCREASED REVENUE.

Treasury Predictions of Big Losses to the Government not Verified by the Facts.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The receipts of the bureau of internal revenue from the tax on tobacco do not as yet bear out the predictions of the officials of the treasury that a decrease of the tax from twenty-four to sixteen cents per pound would result in a loss of ten millions of dollars per year to the government. On the contrary, the returns for May and June, the two months that have elapsed since the reduction was made by Congress, show an increase in the revenue over that collected during the corresponding period last year. The amount of tax collected in May and June, 1878, was $7,524,817, and for the same months in 1879, $10,121,751, showing an increase for 1879 of $2,596,934. The high figures for May, 1879, result largely from the included special tax on license paid during that month, which brings into the treasury about $1,000,000, making May always an exceptional month in this regard. Then the fact that the tax was to be lowered on May 1st interfered with the sales from the time of its agitation in Congress, which was in January last, the taxes for February, March and April aggregating only $6,805,000, or slightly less than for May alone. This large increase immediately following the reduction of the tax, was natural, but the continued large revenues for June are less easy of explanation save on the basis of larger consumption, due to the national growth of population and to the greater cheapness of the article, making the collection of the tax much easier and more effective.

The Burning by the Commune.

The correspondent of the London Times sent this vivid account from Paris on Wednesday May 21, 1871, of the destruction of the palace:

Ah! this morning! Its pale flush of aurora-bloom was darkest, most sombre night for the once proud, now stricken and humiliated city. When the sun rose, what saw he? Not a fair city—on that within the last year Sol has looken down more than once. But black clouds floated his rays—clouds that rose from the Palladium of France. Great God! that men should be so mad as to strive to make universal ruin because their puny course of factiousness is run! The flames from the Palace of the Tuileries, kindled by damnable petroleum, insulted the soft light of the morning, and cast lurid rays on grinny, recreant Frenchman who skulked from the dastardly incendiarism to pot at countrymen from behind a barricade. How the place burned! The flames revelled in the historical palace, whipped up the rich furniture, burst out the plate-glass windows, brought down the fantastic roof. It was in the Prince Imperial's wing, facing the Tuileries gardens, where the demon of fire first had his dismal sway. By 8 o'clock the whole of this wing was nearly burned out. As I reached the end of the Rue Dauphine the red belches of flames were bursting out from the corner of the Tuileries facing the private gardens and the Rue de Rivoli; the rooms occupied by the King of Prussia and his suite on the visit to France the year of the exhibition. There is a furious jet of flame pouring out of the window where Bismarck used to sit and smoke. Crash! Is it an explosion or a fall of flooring that causes this black smoke and red sparks in our faces? God knows what hell-devices may be within that burning pile; it were well, surely, to give it a wide berth. And so eastward to the Place du Palais Royal, which is still unsafe by reason of shot and shell from the neighborhood of the Hotel de Ville. And there is the great archway by which troops were wont to enter into the Place du Carousel. Is the fire there yet? Just there and no more. Could the archway be cut the Louvre, with its artistic riches, might still be spared. But there are none to help. The troops were lounging supinely in the rues, intent—and who shall blame weary, powder-grimed men?—on bread and wine. And so the devastator leaps from chimney to chimney, from window to window. He is over the archway now, and I would not give two hours' purchase for all the riches of the Louvre. In the name of modern vandalism, what means the burst of smoke and the jet of fire. Alas, for art! the Louvre is on fire independently, and so is the Palais Royal and the Hotel de Ville, where the rump of the Commune are covering amid their incendiarism, and the Ministry of Finance and many and other public and private building besides of which more anon.

MOREHEAD CITY.

Crops, Schools and the "Old Canal" Survey.

Correspondence of the News.

CROPS.

MOREHEAD CITY, July 31.—Crops in this section have suffered materially from the long drouth, especially corn and rice. We are now blessed with bountiful rains, which are causing crops to spring up from their parched and sickly appearance to that of health and vigor. The prospects are that the farmers will make about an average crop, with the exception of corn and rice. The watermelon crop was not as good as expected, though our farmers have already shipped about 150,000 by vessel to Northern markets, and by railroad to the interior of this State and Virginia.

SCHOOLS.

The second session of Morehead City school, under the excellent management of Professors Lee and Brinson, will begin about the 15th of August. Morehead City, for morat and healthful advantages, has no superior.

THE OLD CANAL SURVEY.

The Hon. Marshal Parks and party arrived at Beaufort a few days ago, on the steamer Bonito. We understand he will make a survey of the Harbor and Clubfoot's Creek Canal, which connects the Neuse river and Beaufort harbor, and which the general government anticipates making navigable for large vessels, will, when complete, be a great benefit to vessels bound to and from New Berne, Washington, or any where in the "north counties." They can pass through the canal in and out of Beaufort Inlet and avoid, to a great extent, the dangers of Hatteras shoals, which all mariners dread. Mr. Parks stopped at the Atlantic House, where he was joined by Senator Ransom, Col. Whitford and others, from which they were taken by Captain Bell to examine the o.d canal. D. C. T.

William Drummond.

[E. Dodson in Richmond Religious Herald.]

William Drummond was the first Governor of North Carolina. He was hung, without judge or jury, by Governor Berkeley, of Virginia, at Williamburg, Va., January 19th, 1677. He had married a lady in Virginia, and moved from North Carolina to Virginia to take care of her property. He had been in Bacon's army.

When Bacon died his men scattered. Several were hung who were the greatest men in Virginia—General Hanson, Bland, Claiborne and others. Claiborne was the grandfather of Phillips, the great Irish orator. Governor Drummond concealed himself in the hills of the Chickahominy in the close of 1676. As the excitement was over, he concluded to throw himself on the clemency of Governor Berkeley. When Berkeley saw him, he said: "Governor Drummond, I am happier to see you than any other man in this world, and in one half hour you are to be hung." He did not hang him in a half hour, but he hung him in two or three hours.

I suppose there is not a man upon earth, as far as I can learn, who knows where Governor Drummond lies in Williamsburg, Va. If his grave was known North Carolina would raise a monument over it, and Virginia, too. Christ was far better than Pilate, who condemned him. Drummond was much superior to Berkeley, who condemned and executed him. Lake Drummond in the Dismal Swamp is an everlasting monument to his memory.

[If the Herald is right, North Carolina would do for Drummond what she has inexcusably neglected to do for other distinguished sons.—NEWS.]

Inferior Court for Wake.

Correspondence of the News.

WAKE CO., July 30.—I will suggest for the consideration of the justices of this county that it is very important that an Inferior Court be established in Wake.

Prisoners should not be kept in jail from August to January. It is hard on the prisoners and on the people of the county who have to board them. Besides this, the Civil Court of the county is taken up almost entirely with criminal business so that no civil business can be transacted.

Our present courts cannot administer justice. Persons seeking it in them, have a certainty of suit pending for years before they can be determined. The constitution is violated.

I would further suggest that the county be apportioned and that the defendant be bound over from different portions and appear on different days, and on such days as they may be tried.

J. H. FEMING.

A Justifiable Killing.

Asheville Citizen.

A difficulty occurred on Saturday evening in Flat Creek township, which resulted in the shooting and killing of John Henry Wild, by his brother, Joseph Wild. It seems that John Henry and his wife were making a violent, if not deadly, assault upon the mother of Wild, using a shovel and an axe. A little girl, daughter of old Mrs. Wild, seeing her mother so cruelly attacked, ran about a quarter of a mile to her brother Joseph's, and notified him of what was going on. He at once repaired to his mother's house, carrying his gun with him. Upon arriving at the place he discovered that his mot her had been knocked down, and John Henry had the axe drawn over her. Upon seeing Joseph approach, John Henry made at him with the axe. Joseph retreated a short distance, notifying John not to approach him further, and the latter, still pursuing, was fired upon and instantly killed. Our informant had not heard (Sunday) the extent of Mrs. Wild's injuries. Joseph Wild surrendered himself to Esquire Blackstock, and has been bound over to court.

CRAWLING THINGS.

FIVE WHISKEY BARRELLS FULL OF SNAKES.

A Whole Neighborhood Engaged in Clubbing Snakes---A True Story.

Cincinnati Commercial.

Jonathan Rockwell, engineer at the fire-brick works at Sciotoville, Ohio, has caught and killed the greatest number of snakes ever heard of in these parts. Some three weeks ago he purchased five empty whisky barrels and stored them in an outbuilding to be used for cider barrels when his apples were ripe enough to be made into that temperence beverage. Near the outbuilding there is a ledge of rocks containing many fissures and openings, and has always been a "bad place for snakes."

Yesterday Mr. Rockwell took occasion to visit the outbuilding referred to, and in opening the door he noticed a number of snakes crawling into the bung-holes of the whisky barrels. Quick as thought he got the bungs and drove them into the barrels and secured the snakes. He then attempted to roll the barrels out of the building, but found them too heavy to handle without assistance. He then called J. D. Mathiot, Dustin Jones, George Sturdy, Hugh Smith and Thomas Powell, who armed themselves with hickory clubs and proceeded to kill the snakes. The bung was taken out of one barrel and some hot water was poured in, and the snakes began to come out so rapidly that it kept all the above gentlemen busy with their clubs in dispatching them.

The next barrel was treated in the same manner until all the five barrels were emptied, and the total number of snakes killed was 2,153. To-day there has been a steady stream of people visiting the promises of Mr. Rockwell and viewing the slain snakes. No one pretends to account for the snakes getting into the barrels. All we can say is that they were there, and it is the "whole truth, and nothing but the truth." The affidavits of our best and most reliable citizens will substantiate it beyond any doubt. The snakes were not all large snakes, but there were none less then a foot in length, while many were six or seven feet long. A trench had to be dug this afternoon to bury them, as the stench arising from them was getting horrible.

PORTSMOUTH, O., July 23.

To the Editor of the Commercial:

The foregoing is submitted as the latest and most reliable snake story out. Refer to W. H. Bonsall, editor of the Tribune, or J. W. Newman, editor of the Times, should you question the truth. Yours truly,

JOHN F. RATCLIFF.

NORMAL SCHOOLS.

Professional Instruction in Them, as Viewed by a Michigan Instructor.

Philadelphia Times.

In the art room of the Normal School building, yesterday, the department of normal schools of the National Educational Association listened to an interesting paper from Professor Lewis McLouth, of Ypsilanti, Michigan, on "Professional Instruction." The following is an abst act: "A science underlies every art. Out of fixed principles every art grows and of them it becomes an expression. Art grows this unconsciously; but science, on the other hand, grows consciously out of art. Art demands a knowledge of processes and principles. Teaching, as an art, of course demands the same, for the liberal professions preparations must be both general and special, the former being nearly the same for all, the latter bearing directly on the particular profession to be adopted. For teaching, special preparation has hitherto been made under individual masters or in technical or normal schools. The art of teaching is, perhaps, the oldest of all arts; but its correlative science has not yet been elaborated, and most of the work of teaching has been done empirically with the prosperity of the country. During the war normal schools were established and were often the subject of competition in new towns and growing territories; but with the hard times came a revulsion. All expenditure was scrutinized. The normal schools did not escape. Opposition has closed some of them and impaired the usefulness of others.

"The opponents of these schools for the special training of professional teachers may be divided into those who ignore the science of teaching and those who deny that these schools are what they claim to be, urging that but ten per cent. of the work bears on the special training of teachers. They would not have academical education given in these schools. Both classes of opponents made themselves felt in Michigan. They clamored either for the closing of the normal school of the State or for exclusive attention therein to the special training of teachers, and the State Board finally asked whether considerable changes in the course of studies were not needed. The leading men of the State supported the proposition, and what was called "a new departure" was ultimately made."

A Man of Esthetic Tastes.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

He wore his hair long like a poet or a lunatic, and his nose gleamed like an electric light. He had been arrested for stealing flowers from win dows, and some of the stolen plants found in his possession were placed on the judge's bench.

"I would like to make a statement, if your honor please," said he, after the evidence was all in and the theft fixed squarely upon him. "I admit my guilt. I took this fair, frail heliotrope; also this stately geranium and this magnificent yellow rose," and he bent over the flowers and drank in the perfume of each.

"Yes, I took them," he continued after a pause, during which he plucked a sprig from the heliotrope and a leaf from the geranium as he fastened them in his button-hole. "I took them because I was starving—not starving for food, your honor, but at sight of these beautiful flowers my soul hungered to possess them. I know it was wrong, I couldn't help it. I have an eye, an ear, a heart for the beautiful. My soul craved it and my hand took it."

"Wheren't you here once before me for stealing?" asked the judge.

"I—I believe I was. In an unlucky moment my ear caught the sweet notes of Mrs. Jone's beautiful canary. It seemed that every time I passed the house the bird was pouring forth its soul in song. I was entranced with the melody—"

"And so one day you reached in the cage window with a pole, lifted the cage from its hook and walked off with it?"

"Yes, Judge, I did; and to tell the truth, I never felt such perfect happiness and contentment as I felt that day, when I had the golden-throated songster in my possession and could claim it as my own, as it were. My tastes are esthetic to a degree—"

"You sold the bird and cage afterwards for twenty cents and a drink of whisky, I believe?"

"I must admit that you are again correct, Judge."

"And you were breaking for the same doggery this time, with these flowers in your arms, if I mistake not?"

"Once more are you correct, dear Judge; but please remember my weakness for the beautiful in nature, and temper justice with mercy."

"Six months," said the court gruffly.

The prisoner moved off, remarking, "I have long been apprehensive that my æsthetic tastes would lead me into dangerous places," and then, pausing on the threshold, he took one long, lingering look at the flowers, and said:

"If I only could take the heliotrope and that pale yellow rose with me, my incarceration would be esteemed a blessing rather than a bane."

A ROW IN PARLIAMENT.

Scenes of the American Congress Enacted in the British Parliament.

LONDON, July 19.—A batch of Parliamentary dirty linen has been washed in public during the last fortnight, with results discouraging to patriots who believe parliamentary government to be the most convenient and sure method of putting the will of the people in force. The history of the fortnight is a history of dissension, obstruction and general confusion. Not only has the parliamentary system been discredited, but party discipline has been weakened; and if this be a lesser evil than the other, it is not less fraught with mischief for the moment. The subject is one which deserves a more elaborate treatment than is possible within the limits of a letter; but I may attempt to give an outline—it cannot be nothing more—of its salient features.

There have been during this melancholy fortnight four distinct conflicts within the limits of the House; not one of which ought ever to have arisen, or to have been allowed to become public. They are:

1. A conflict between a minority of obstructives and the House itself.

2. A conflict between these obstructives and the Speaker.

3. A conflict between the leader of the Liberals and the Independent Liberals below the gangway.

4. A conflict of an intestine kind in the Tory party, similar to that in the Liberal party.

The struggle between the band of Irish members familiarly known as Obstructives and the House is, of course, older in date than the last fortnight, but it is during this recent period that it has reached its most acute stage. Moreover, it is during this recent period that the Irish have been reinforced by a number of English who sympathized with the Irish in their hostility to the Army Discipline bill. The result of this is to sacrifice the principle of hostility to Obstructives, as a method of Parliamentary warfare, to hostility against a particular measure, or rather against particular clauses of a particular measure. The Irish, some of whom have a keen scent for public feeling, entered upon a guerrilla struggle against flogging in the Army. English members who sincerely dislike flogging joined them, and the Army Discipline bill has been fought for weeks with a pertinacity little short of factious. The English, who had been foremost in denouncing obstruction, were found taking part in obstruction. Scenes in the House became frequent. Violent passions were let loose. Midnight sittings and sittings which lasted till past daylight were no novelty. Meantime, the temperage act under which alone the Army was kept in control was on the point of expiring. The general sense of the House went for nothing. The authority of the Speaker and of the leaders on both sides went for nothing. There was every prospect of a catastrophe.

Matters were in this condition when the Speaker bethought himself of a novel expedient. The usual devices for reducing recalcitrant members to order having failed—and failed largely through the weakness and incompetence of the nominal leader of the House, Sir Stafford Northcote—Mr. Brand thought it would be a good thing to have some official or semi-official evidence on which he might base what we must suppose to have been an intended assertion of his own authority. He sent two clerks into the galleries to take notes—to make, as he said, a fuller report than would otherwise be had of the proceedings. It was only one more blunder to add to the long list already committed. It was an attempt to check irregularities by another irregularity. Mr. Parnell and his associates instantly saw their advantage. They protested. They denounced the action of the Speaker as an attempt to "terrorize" the minority. The word was an unfortunate one, but the complaint was in substance just. But since it appears to be the doom of everybody who meddles with questions of order to blunder, Mr. Parnell fell into the mistake of defying the legitimate authority of the Speaker in attempting to resist what was clearly an illegitimate stretch of it. He bullied the Chair, stormed at the Speaker, disobeyed his mandates, and led the most furious of many furious demonstrations which he and his lieutenants have made during the session. Then he moved a vote of censure on the Speaker; which the House negatived by a majority of something like twenty to one. The House was clearly of opinion that its Speaker had committed a technical error, but they were in no mood to condemn him at the bidding of men whose sins were of infinitely blacker complexion. The majority meant to condone a venial error of the Speaker, and to condemn his assailants by the same vote, But it was an unseemly spectacle. It left the Speaker, if not with diminished authority, with damaged prestige.

The School Bill Mandamus Case.

The argument of this case before the Supreme Court was concluded yesterday. Colonel Walter Clark first addressed the court in continuation of his argument began yesterday, and spoke for two hours. His speech is spoken of in the highest terms of praise by every one, and the school-children's side of this important case certainly had two faithful advocates in the personages of Colonel Clark and his associate, W. H. Pace, Esq. Hon. John Manning next addressed the court, and as usual, delivered a fine argument for his side. Mr. Pace closed the case by a half hour's masterly effort, and thus the case went to the court.

Now for the decision!

Swallowed a Teaspoon.

Reidsville Times.

Little "Vic," the little daughter of J. M. Sublett in Greensboro swallowed a toy teaspoon, pewter, a few days since and her parents were in much anxiety until the spoon was passed. It did not trouble the child at all. It was about three inches in length with carved handle and dipper at end. She was standing in a chair with the spoon in her mouth and must have swallowed it as she jumped from the chair. The spoon is right black, turned so by the acid in her stomach. Her parents have the spoon and will preserve it. As for "Vic" she is still jumping.

Do you smoke? Then of course you know the Fragrant Durham Bull Smoking Tobacco. The old original brand of Durham Tobacco, is now, as it always has been—the best.

CUPIDS' CUSSEDNESS.

AN OLD MAN'S LOVE---A YOUNG GIRLS FANCY.

A Sweet Sixteener Elopes with "Old Money Boys, and Honeymoons it in Europe.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Under the head of marriages in a New York paper appears the following: "In St. Barnabas Church, Brooklyn, E. D., July 28, Mr. William H. Guild to Rosella M. Stillman, eldest daughter of Amos B. Stillman, all of that city." Connected with this notice is a story. The Miss Stillman is or rather was a Brooklyn girl of sweet sixteen. Her husband is a wealthy manufacturer, whose head is as white as snow and several times her own age. It was on Monday evening last that the young girl accompanied her father to the Brooklyn ferry and kissed him good-by. She was expected home again in a few hours, but she did not come. She was attired in a black bonnet, black velvet skirt and cashmere overskirt with satin fringe. She had a gold watch and chain and wore stone earrings. All the station houses in this city and Brooklyn were notified of her disappearance, and the detectives were set at work. She was traced to a shoe store in Williamsburg as late as 9 o'clock on Monday evening, but here all traces ended. The question arose in her father's mind where his daughter had got her money, and then he recollected that the old manufacturer had on several occasions given her money. He went immediately to the residence of the old man, but he hadn't been at home for a day or two. Nothing could be learned of the whereabouts of either the girl or the old man until the marriage notice appeared. The pair sailed for Europe yesterday on a wedding tour.

Potted Preserves.

Tarboro Southerner.

Refreshing showers over the country have reminded those in "Spring time of life" that it is time to pucker their lips on the lover's lute. Very true, crops, in a great measure, in many places, as failures are clever successes; but the girls are growing more economical, you know—only require twenty yards of calico to construct a dress, which their mothers concocted out of ten. But no sensible man will object to the train, so long as the engine has got steam enough to pull it. They need no coaching. The market is quoted firm, though prices are a mite nervous.

Married at the Episcopal church, in Wilson, on Wednesday, July 23d, by Rev. B. S. Bronson, Mr. W. H. G. Scott, a prominent druggist of Enfield, to Miss Flora, the accomplished daughter of W. M. Gay, Esq., of Wilson. The happy groom may now sing:

Flora is my darling bride,
Flora, bright Flora Gay!
And I'm dancing at her side
All the livelong day.

On the 16th instant, at the residence of G. A. Newell, Esq., in Warsaw, by Rev. J. N. Stallings, Miss Kate C. Newell to Jesse S. Caudeli, Esq., of Mount Olive, N. C.

To fan Cupid's flame, of course he needs fuel,
And such he found in Catherine C. Newell.
While dreams of love o'erflow his noddle,
A happy man is Jesse S. Caudell.

At Ebenezer church, on Saturday, the 19th instant, by Rev. Charles M. Cook, J. J. Goodwyn to Miss Maggie E. Branch. All of Halifax county.

At Ebenezer, all to please her,
He took her before Mr. Cook;
Now's lovely bride—both filled with pride—
Being married "by the book,"
We wish them joy, without alloy,
While paddling down the brook.

At the residence of Simon Barnes, Esq., on Sunday, July 20th, 1879, Mr. John A. Lucas to Miss Sena Lamm, daughter of Solomon Lamm, Esq., Simon Barnes, J. P., officiating. All of Wilson county.

The Advance says it was a runaway match and the "old man" missed it by eight minutes.

Ah, well old man,
Solomon Lamm,
How precious was a minute!
Your daughter, Sena,
Sweet philopœna,
Don't wish you had a-been it!
Well, well your flock,
May increase in stock,
And number a dozen lambs.

Memphis Repopulating.

Half-Sheet Avalanche.

Neither war, famine nor pestilence can frighten Hymen. His torch burns as brightly in evil as in prosperous times. In proof of the above read the following list of those who have procured marriage licenses since the 19th instant: W H Berkshire and Miss Bettie Walker, George Stewart and Miss Jessie Postal, M McDaniel and Miss Laura Noel, John Bemish and Miss L Cunningham, Richard Jones and Mrs Margaret Johnson, A J Alexander and Miss Rosa Owens, Wash Newell and Miss Lou Flynn, Nat Brown and Miss Hattie Jackson, Dave Munson and Mrs. Eliza Owens, Richard Eustace and Miss Mary Henning, Henry M Hampton and Miss Tennie Anderson, Albert Taylor and Miss Margaret Capers, Henry Jones and Mrs Jennie Davis, John T Walsh and Miss Lizzie J Bannon, George S Hayden and Mrs Chaney Anderson, William Williams and Miss Mary Wales, Alonzo Aiken and Miss Fannie Malone, T E Adams and Miss E M Gatlin, John Palmer and Miss Minnie Fox.

The System---So-Called.

Reidsville Times.

If Governor Jarvis is to the so-called "North Carolina system" as the system is to the people in getting them in a straight shoot to Asheville and other points west without the trouble of lying over all night at Salisbury, then the system and the Governor may be mutually pleased with each other for both are good, fus'trate. As we understand it a man may take supper in Reidsville to-night and be in Asheville to dinner to-morrow. That looks lively.

A Boy's Queer Taste.

Little boy in East Brideport has a singular fondness for eating cotton in the various form in which it is used. His parents have to watch him because he will chew up and swallow every piece of thread he finds and will also lunch from a roll of cotton batting, if opportunity offers. Not long ago he ate quite a hole in a roll of the latter intrusted to him to carry home. This revolutionary style of diet does not seem to entirely agree with him, as he is quite emaciated.

The Pee Dee Country.

Pee Dee Herald.

On the 16th of August the corner-stone of the Main Exhibition Building of the Dixie Agricultural and Mechanical Association will be laid with appropriate ceremonies. Colonel L. L. Polk, our worthy Commissioner of Agriculture for North Carolina, will deliver an Agricultural address. Judge Fowle, Senator Vance, Governor Jarvis and others are invited, and will, no doubt, be present and enliven the occasion by addresses. The military companies of this and adjoining counties will be present, in full uniform. The gentlemen of the Wadesboro Cornet Band will give the people the chance of hearing some very fine music. The ladies will have plenty to eat on hand, which will be sold very cheap, and the proceeds will go towards paying the expenses of the buildings. From what we can see and learn from the managers, it will be a lively time in old Wadesboro on the 16th day of August next. We hope to see the good honest working men and the fair ladies of Union, Stanly, Montgomery, Richmond and Anson counties, N. C., and Chesterfield, S. C., (and in fact, from other counties,) assembled on the beautiful grounds of the Dixie Association on Saturday, August 16th, for we can assure them that they will have a day of rare enjoyment.

THE CUTICURA REMEDIES.

Some Facts regarding Them---Who Makes Them and what is thought of Them by the Drug Trade.

From the Chicago Times.

To enable the Times to furnish its readers with some reliable information regarding Cuticura remedies, which are now attracting so much public attention, a reporter called yesterday upon Mr. Peter Van Schaack, of Van Schaack, Stevenson & Co., wholesale and retail druggists, corner Lake and Dearborn Streets, when the following facts were elicited:—

R.—Will you oblige the readers of the Times by answering a few questions regarding the Cuticura remedies?

Mr. Van S.—Certainly; fire away.

R.—Do they sell well?

Mr. Van S.—The sale of the Cuticura, Cuticura Resolvent, and Cuticura Soap have been unprecedented.

R.—What reasons do you give for so large a sale?

Mr. Van S.—I give four reasons. First, they are original and revolutionary in their composition and mode of treatment. Second, they undoubtedly possess great curative properties. Third, there are thousands upon thousands of sick and suffering who have tried and found wanting the usual remedies and modes of treatment, and who are ready to welcome a really great and successful medicine, Fourth, the price of them is within the means of every invalid.

R.—Are your large sales of these medicines through you agents?

Mr. Van S.—No; they are legitimate mail orders. We empely no travelers on the road—are fudamentally opposed to that way of selling goods—the retailer has to stand such expenses, and such staple goods as those requires no one to force them off.

Mr. Van S.—They are proprietary only so far as their names are concerned, these being held as trade-marks.

R.—Can you tell us something about this firm?

Mr. Van S.—Weeks & Potter are importers, wholesale druggists and chemists, and for twenty-five years have been the foremost house in the trade in New England.

R.—It is popularly supposed that advertising will sell most anything, regardless of merit. Is it true?

Mr. Van S.—No. A remedy falsely claiming to possess virtues of which it is in fact destitute, will surely fail. No reputible firm—and druggists are the most competent judges—would think of risking fame and fortune on any medicine unless it had, under the most trying circumstances, proved itself to possess extraordinary medicinal value. The expense attending the introduction of such remedies is enormous. A fortune must be spent before any return can be expected. If, after a wide distribution, they are found to possess the virtues claimed for them, those have been cured will recommend them one to another, and thus make them remunerative. When a man backs his statements with his own money, you may generally rely upon them. This Weeks & Potter are doing.

R.—Have they ever before prepared remedies for popular use?

Mr. Van S.—I believe not. They are, like ourselves, agents for a great many, but we think these are the first that they prepare themselves. It is but once in a lifetime that a discovery is made of a remedy that such a firm as Weeks & Potter are willing to stake reputation and fortune on.

R.—Are their prospects flattering, or otherwise?

Mr. Van S.—Very flattering. As I said before, the remedies undoubtly possess great merit. And, besides, they treat blood and skin disases according to a new and thoroughly rational plan, that must take a firm hold on the confidence of those who suffer from chronic diseases of the blood skin, and scalp.

"That's my Sister."

Maiden with the rippling hair,
Laughing eyes and tripping feet,
Was't for me you smiled so sweet
When I passed you on the stair?

Do I cause the tell-tale blush
Which o'er-crimsons all your cheek,
And which silent yet doth speak
Thoughts which glow like sunset-flush?

Do I cause—confound my glasses!
Quick, good usher, else I've missed her!
"There's the lady, there she passes!"
No, man, hang it!—that's my sister!

Board of Aldermen.

There was a regular meeting of the Board. Quorum present.

The report of the Finance Committee was received and adopted.

A recommendation was received from the Street Committee to build a culvert at the intersection of Lane and Bloodworth streets which was referred to the Committee for an estimate of the cost, etc.

Upon the recommendation of the Street Committee Jno. T. Ross who was badly injured by the premature exploring at the quarry last May was allowed $40,00.

A report from a committee appointed to confer with the Academy of Medicine and devise some plan whereby charity prescriptions might be lessened was resumed, recommending giving the contract to the druggist who will fill the same at the smallest per centage.

The Street Commissioner was instructed to run pipes from the Peace Institute cistern so that it can be used by the engines in case of fire.

Metropolitan Hall was leased for three years to John C. Blake, agent, for $350 per annum.

A committee of three was appointed to confer with Messrs. Whitelaw & Campbell in regard to the completion of the cisterns.

License to retail liquor was granted to Frank Jones & Co.

The Board adjourned to Tuesday night next.

"TOO PROUD TO BEG."

HE LAID DOWN ON HIS GRASSY BED TO DIE.

The Song Birds of His Native Land Sing His Funeral Dirge---Rheumatism and Pride.

An elderly man, of stout build, but bent down with sickness, tottered by the policeman on duty at the Central Park gate at Fifth avenue and Forty-ninth street, last Wednesday afternoon, and slowly made his way along the path to the right of the entrance. About half way to the Arsenal building he was met by a woman named Mrs. Snyder. He accosted her and in German inquired if she knew of a quiet spot where a man could commit suicide. "Yes," she replied, "there are lots of places here, but it is getting to be a common thing nowadays for men to shoot themselves in the Park," and thinking that the old man was only joking she passed on. She afterward related to an officer the strange question which had been propounded to her. After holding the above conversation with Mrs. Snyder, the German proceeded to the monkey house and succeeded in getting behind it unobserved by the many people who daily congregate there. Then he made his way through the tall grass and coolly prepared to take his life. The place he had selected was in the rear of the shed in which the song birds of all countries are caged. There he plucked some grass and made a pillow of it.

Then he took from his pocket an old horse pistol, with a barrel nine inches long, and, after carefully loading and capping it, lay down on his grassy bed. While thus reclining he cocked the weapon and placed the muzzle to his forehead, and firmly holding it with both hands, fired. The ball ploughed its way through the skull, shattering the upper portion into atoms and causing instant death. It was but a few minutes before 3 o'clock when the loud report of the pistol frightened the birds and attracted the attention of the police. Officer Michael Foley, who was on post in that locality, at once began an investigation, and after a long search found the body in the position above described. It was a ghastly sight, the dead man's face being blackened with the powder and the upper portion of his head being like jelly. Blood, bone and hair were spattered over the grass.

THE OLD MAN'S IDENTITY.

The body was placed on a stretcher and carried into the Arsenal Building. It was there searched, and in one of the pockets were found three letters and a memorandum book. Two of the letters were sealed, one being addressed to Michael Heidt, of No. 20 Fourth avenue, and the other to Mrs. Schlund, of No. 231 East Fifth street. An unsealed letter, written in German and apparently intended for the Coroner, read as follows:

I have been fifteen years sick with rheumatism, and I will have to beg in my old age. My pride will not allow me to do that; therefore in my old age I shall kill myself.

A Wonderful Negro.

Abbeville (Ala.) Register.

Dr. George Ezekial Thomas was at Otho on the 3d instant, and exhibited himself to a few persons, among whom were Drs. Baird and Crawford of Hilliardville. He made his "in'ards" turn over and over worse than water boiling in a pot for some time and then exhibited a double set of ribs on his right side, then dropped his heart to the lower portion of his abdomen on the left side, and then changed it to a similar position on the right side—he then stopped his heart and pulse from beating for a short time. This all seemed to be so and the doctors said it was so, but there were some around who seem to be incredulous. He is a black negro, medium size, and appear stupid, but talks with good sense. He says he was born a slave at Americus, Ga., in 1820; that he has traveled over the United States, France, England, Germany and Cuba, and that his home is now in Syracuse, N. Y. He used more medical technicalities than it is safe to undertake to repeat with a limited knowledge of them. He is a great curiosity.

What Settle Wants.

Boston Herald.

Judge Thomas Settle of North Carolina has the vice-presidential fever. He has been asking President Hayes to put all the appointments in North and South Carolina and Florida under his charge, so as to aid him in securing delegates from those States who will work for him in the national convention. Most any Republican will suit Judge Settle as partner. His willingness to play second fiddle is something for Mr. Hendricks to ponder upon.

Accident on the Western North Carolina Railroad.

Charlotte Observer, 29th.

An accident occurred yesterday morning on the Western North Carolina Railroad. Just as the train of cars was crossing Mill Creek bridge, the middle car jumped the track and ran the full length of a car, when the trucks gave way and the car crushed down upon the road bed. No injuries of a serious nature were inflicted. Mr. Alex. Thompson, of Alamance, was painfully bruised about the head.

The rates are very moderate withal, in accordance with the hard times, and the throngs of visitors attest how much these things are appreciated by the public.

DAILY NEWS

HUSSEY & JORDAN, PROPRIETORS

JOHN B. HUSSEY, - - Editor.

SATURDAY, - - AUGUST 2, 1879.

Mr. Dickinson, Secretary of the State Board of Education of Massachusetts, has presented the side of high school education to the Educational Association at Philadelphia. His position is, that the high schools hold the relation of a part to a whole; that without them there could be no true scientific teaching in our system of public schools, as the pupils of the elementary schools would be sent out into public life without a proper training of their reflective faculties, by whose activity general principles are discovered and rules of conduct are constructed. The further point was made that if the high schools be removed there will be no longer open to all the means of obtaining that knowledge which "trains individuals to be intelligent and good citizens in a highly civilized and free Commonwealth." Mr. Dickinson speaks for those who pin their faith to the high schools as an essential part of free public instruction. It is the old position of high school adherents and is defective for the reason that the base of the cherished "system" is an ideal one. The assumption that all the pupils of the elementary schools are candidate for the schools is erroneous. On this assumption the curriculum of the system is framed, and, inasmuch as but a slight fraction of the pupils ever get in sight of the high school, the vast majority of them are compelled to partake of mental food which in many of its characteristics is adapted only to the wants of the few. Mr. Dickinson's talk about "free instruction in the higher branches of learning" as a means of preventing class distinctions and of maintaining that "equality of social rank" which "renders republican institutions possible," is arrant nonsense. There cannot be such a thing as "equality of social rank" under any system of checks yet invented. The country's need is a practical educational system, open to all, and managed by educated teachers and practical, common-sense men.

What the sensible Rev. A. D. Mayo said to the Educational Association yesterday is worth all the theorizing that has ever been printed on the "trite" subject of education. He said, "one of the chief delights of an American is the hourly glimpse of the noble buildings erected by the people for the instruction of the children. How often this palace is occupied by the same teachers that plodded away in the old shanty school house, with the exception that an inexperienced girl is substituted for an inexperienced man. In thousands of villages and scores of cities between Boston and San Francisco the new school house is half a century ahead of the principal, to say nothing of the assistants. A good teacher with a piece of chalk under a tree instructs more than the greatest chunk of incompetency under a building of grand architecture. Practical men go to the schools and see the beautiful methods in the hands of green, conceited and lazy teachers and the stiff graduate of the normal school. Often I have wished I was a John Morrissey, able to tackle one of these specimen teachers, who sit in their chairs trying to bulldoze their pupils. We want good teachers, real teachers, and when we get them the complaints against cramming will be deprived of their force."

NEW YORK politics is attracting unusual attention this year. The Republican State Convention meets at Saratoga September 3d. The Democratic Convention meets at Niagara Falls the subsequent week. The Republicans have control of the vast patronage of the Federal Government, and there is no apparent dissension in their ranks. With limited resources for conducting a long campaign the Democrats are going for each other's throats after the most approved Henan style. The Tammany faction is fighting Tilden through Governor Robinson. The Express and Star sustain Tammany. The World is a Bayard paper. The Sun is a silly Tilden paper. The Herald, as usual, is widening the breach. A striking feature of this disreputable political wrangle is the respectful treatment Governor Robinson receives at the hands of Republicans. His enemies are evidently in his own party.

IF Governor Robinson were a Republican and one of the worst Governors who has ever presided over an American commonwealth, he could not be assailed with more virulence than he is to-day by Democratic politicians and newspaper organs claiming to represent one faction of the Democratic party in that State. Of course this tells against the Democratic party as a whole, not alone through the division and desertion which are threatened, but because of the apparent lack of tone and spirit in an organization which is not able, or not willing, to frown down and crush out dissension in its own ranks. A party against which such a charge as this can be made, cannot achieve success, and, indeed, cannot continue to exist for any great length of time. Whether the Democratic party has the strength and can vindicate itself, remains to be seen. One thing is certain: The Republican party hopes for success in New York at the approaching election because of the division which exists in the ranks of the Democratic party. New York politics is a game of spoils, at best. It has always been so.

THEY know in Washington exactly how the thing is going. We can believe it or not.——

(1.) That Tilden is getting ahead with his presidential operations, and the Grant crowd are falling behind with theirs.

(2.) That he has got New York and Pennsylvania well in hand and he will have little difficulty in holding his own in the South.

(3.) There is not strength and morale enough in the party to throw him off, and the indications are that this "preposterous, old, whispering humbug" will be the Democratic candidate again for the position to which he was elected in 1876.

(4.) That the Republican machine is going to be against Grant when the time comes.

(5.) That limber-tongued howlers like Bishop Haven, who don't know anything but their own prejudices and whims, may keep up a clatter for Grant, but the party will not have him.

(6.) That the Republican nomination to-day lies between Sherman and Blaine, with a rapidly increasing perception in the minds of the rank and file of the party that Hayes is preferable to either of them.

(7.) That in fact, both Hayes and Tilden seem to have about the same chances of being nominated that they had at this time of the year in 1875.

(a.) That Hayes can well afford to assist Sherman up to a certain point, but when the Grant men turn in for Blaine, Mr. Sherman and all the other candidates will prefer Hayes to the author of the Mulligan letters and, memoranda—a kind of literature to which there is sometimes an appendix.

(b.) That the reader is at liberty to do his own guessing.

The Washington Post is severe on our Settle. But all fair-minded people will agree with the Post that "it is a melancholy spectacle to see a Federal judge roaming about the country in the role of an itinerant demagogue, boasting of his political influence and what it can accomplish, and trying to work up a boom for himself for the Radical nomination for the Vice-Presidency. The judicial ermine draggling through the mire of a low stratum of partisan politics is disgusting to decent men of all parties. The man who is thus degrading his high office is Judge Settle, of North Carolina, and we have no idea that he will ever settle down into a quiet and well-behaved member the of United States judiciary. One lesson that this babbler teaches, is the impolicy of putting demagogues on the bench. Mr. Hayes has shown a strong inclination to follow Grant in this regard. In one notable instance, the Senate has thwarted his purpose to reinforce the partisanship of our judiciary. The same policy on the part of the Senate, in all future cases, will do much to elevate the character of that important department of the Government."

Senator James A. Beck is one of the Senators from the State of Kentucky. He was a member of the House of Representatives for several terms. While a member of that body he was assailed by old Parson Brownlow, then a member of the United States Senate from Tennessee, who referred to Beck as having been one of a class of men the South always despised—the overseers, or drivers of their slaves. Beck made a memorable reply to this attack, in his place in the House. After referring to his foreign birth, to his early struggles against adversity, and to the efforts he had made to advance himself in the world, he closed by saying that all that he had said was well known to the people of Kentucky, and especially to the constituency he represented. "When I went to Kentucky, he said, "not being from New England, I did not "teach school; I earned a living by "labor, by the labor of these broad "hands and I earned enough to pay for "my own education. Beside, I was "foreign born, poor and friendless, "then. I have been elected, again and "again, to occupy the chair once filled "by Henry Clay, for I represent the "Ashland District of Kentucky—the "proudest Congressional district in America to-day." Mr. Beck is a very pronounced Democrat, but the effect of his speech proved that true American Democracy is not confined to the representatives of either party. In a speech, delivered by Senator Beck on Monday last, he made the following reference to himself, his native country and the political issues he believes to be involved in the pending conflict between the two great parties:

I have studied the great charter and have seen in the British Museum the rude cross marks of the Barons, with their seals made by impression from the hilts of their swords. They were unlettered men, but they did humanity a never to be forgotten service when they forced their king to covenant that—

"No baliff for the future shall put any man to his law upon his own simple affirmation without creditable witnesses produced for that purpose. No freeman shall be seized or imprisoned or disseized, or outlawed or in any way destroyed, nor will we go upon him, nor will we send upon him, except by the legal judgment of his peers or the law of the land. To none will we sell, to none will we deny, to none will we delay right and justice."

All these great underlying principles fall if the Radical despotic policy prevails. I a Revolutionist, and opposed to the maintenance of free institutions! I would be false to every instinct and aspiration I ever felt if I did anything or said anything that looked like either. I sprang from a race that has endured more, suffered more, and struggled longer to maintain their freedom than any other. I was born in sight of Adrian's wall, which the all-conquering Romans had to erect to protect themselves against a rude but brave people, who preferred death to subjugation. The stories of all the subsequent struggles of that people inspired me with an undying hatred of tyranny and oppression. I have stood in reverential awe, with head uncovered, in "God's Acre" in the old city of Edinburgh, where the bones of thousands of martyrs, who went to the stake and gibbet in defense of their right to maintain and enjoy civil and religious liberty lie in undistinguished and in undistinguishable graves. I have knelt upon the stone were the men and women of Scotland signed the solemn league and covenant with their own blood. I know what liberty costs. May my right arm wither and my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth if I ever do an act or utter a word which tends to subvert any of the constitutional safeguards which sustain and protect the liberties of this people.

If all the "revolutionists" were like this eloquent Scotch-American, freedom would never be allowed to perish on the earth.

The International Review hoots at the idea of honesty of conviction in sectional issues. Neither side dare force the so-called Southern question to its logical conclusions. The Review is visionary. Smart people don't look to politics for logic, or consistency, or honesty.

Patriotism of To-Day.

Springfield Republican.

The Declaration of Independence and not the Federal Constitution was esteemed the glory of the Revolution.

Time and the war has changed this. Liberty has not accomplished everything, and freedom has worked no wonders. The "singular and incommunable Virtue of Liberty," of which men once talked, has grown to be a common thing. The pentecostal outpourings of '76 and '98 and '48 have left men much as they found them; the Parthians and Medes and the Elamites and the dwellers in Mesopotamia and from beyond the Great sea, who have heard liberty spoken each in his own tongue, are in no respect changed. Nor are we. There is real work yet to be done; great problems are yet unsolved. Liberty proves no mistress of happy days and easy dalliance. Freedom has added to the responsibility of daily life the duty of daily vigilance. It has greatly widened the opportunities of life, but not always the capacity to improve them.

Patriotism has grown sadder and deeper under this knowledge. It is no longer passionate in its devotion, and makes no rhapsodical pretenses. Having shown that men here can die for their country, it has become doubtful whether the dead have left behind a generation of citizens able to live for it. The task is harder. None the less the patriotism of the day addresses itself to the work. The organized liberty of three generations has to be delivered, unimpaired and uninjured, perfected rather, to the future to whom it belongs. Into its labors this generation cannot hope to enter. To improve the details of the great mechanism of government, to enforce economy in official expenditure, to cultivate throughout the community that habit of thought which shall regard public office as a public trust, these are the slow achievements of years. They are not won by a charge and a cheer. They cannot be assured through the brief triumphs of reform at the ballot box. They come slowly; but they come. They are to be secured in the dull work of municipal affairs, in the small routine of town meetings. To build sewers cheaply and well, to pave streets honestly, to manage our public schools with efficient economy, to curb the wasteful debt which mortgages to-morrow to pay for to-day; these are the duties in whose discharge the patriotism of to-day is made manifest. It is slow work and hard work, but it is good work. There is not much applause for it; but the future will be full of laboring men and laboring women whose lives will be better and healthier and happier in some small measure because the forgotten men of to-day have seen this duty and done it.

BY E. S. SATUS.

High o'er the fjords and desolate pines
the glow
Of red auroras, like a golden fan
Falls on the herbless wastes of Norway's snow,
O'er lands that never knew the foot of man.

The maelstrom thunders on the craggy coasts,
Blue icebergs wander in the solemn night;
While the grim glaciers, like gigantic ghosts,
Loom with their white peaks in the spectral light.

Bleak moors spread out deserted, chill and lone;
The wailing rooks whir cold wings
on the shore;
While o'er the boundless wilds of fir
and stone
The frost-elves revel and the cataracts roar.

The land knows not the charm of birds
that sing,
No blossom of buds, no lithe and agile
deer;
Unsought, uncared for, in mute suffering
It bides its time, impassable and drear!

While the aurora, like a fiery flower,
Blooms o'er the sterile leagues where none have trod,
And, in the awful silence of the hour,
Dream of its grandeur and communes with God.

LIVER PILLS

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

ACUE AND FEVER

DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. MCLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

DRUNKenness, Intemperance and the use of Opium, Tobacco, Narcotics and Stimulants, removing all craving, desire and habit of using any of them, rendering the taste or desire for any of them perfectly odious and disgusting. Giving every one perfect and irresistible control of the sobriety of themselves and their friends.

It prevents that absolute physical and moral prostration that follows the sudden breaking off from using stimulants or narcotics.

Package, prepaid, to cure 1 to 5 persons, $2, or at your druggists, $1.75 per bottle.

Temperance societies should recommend it. It is perfectly harmless and never-failing.

Hop Cough Cure destroys all pain, loosens the cough, quiets the nerves, produces rest, and never fails to cure.

The Hop Pad for Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, is superior to all others. Cures by absorption. It is perfect—ask druggists.

The Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., of Rochester, N. Y. only, prepare these remedies, also the Hop Bitters, which are in no sense a beverage or intoxicant, but the Purest and Best Medicines ever made, making more cures than all other remedies.

Napoleon Eugene Louis.

Born at Paris, March 16, 1856.
Killed in Zulu Land, June 1, 1879.

"Poor mother!" 'Twas the first thing
thought or said,
Voice of who knows how many million hearts,
When the news came that her brave
boy was dead—
The child of hopes, that youth of princely parts.

Gentle and graceful * * * bright and brave and gay;
Whose brief life all of love and praise had won
That within compass of its winning lay—
Who was all mother could have wished her son.

Fair-dawning day by swift eclipse so crossed,
And by an ambushed savage's stray dart!
Rich freight of hope and love so early lost,
Left but to salvage of a mother's heart!

Talk not of plots and plans that, ripening slow,
Are by this death struck down with blast and blight;
We have no thought but for that mother's woe,
The darkness of that childless widow's night!

"How many hundred unknown mothers mourn Slain sons? Why should this one our hearts so stir?"
Because, set high, we see her crown of thorn,
Feel with all mothers when we feel with her.

"God help her!"—so our prayers begin and end,
Knowing her fortune's fall, her high hope's close—
And gently, Time, bring death, that, like a friend,
Shall lay her down to share her boy's repose.

TUTT'S PILLS CURE TORPID LIVER.
TUTT'S PILLS IMPART APPETITE.

DR. TUTT has succeeded in combining in these pills the heretofore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHING, PURGATIVE, and a PURIFYING TONIC.

Their first apparent effect is to increase the appetite by causing the food to properly assimilate. Thus the system is nourished, and by their tonic action on the digestive organs, regular and healthy evacuations are produced.

The rapidity with which PERSONS TAKE ON FLESH while under the influence of these pills, indicates their adaptability to nourish the body, hence their efficacy in curing nervous debility, melancholy, dyspepsia, wasting of the muscles, sluggishness of the liver, chronic constipation, and imparting health & strength to the system. BUFFALO LITHIA WATER,

As a General Remedial Agent in Chronic Diseases.

It is confidently claimed for these waters, and the claim though a strong one is substantiated by the testimony of many of the most eminent medical men of the country, both North and South, that in the following enumerated diseases: Affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, especially in Stone or Gravel, Dyspepsia, Rheumatic Gout, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Malarial Fevers in their chronic form, Dropsical Effusion, Uremia or Uremic Poison, Chronic Cutaneous Eruptions, and in the Functional Diseases peculiar to Women, more especially in al Disorders of the Menstrual Function. They have accomplished results as remarkable as were ever accomplished by any remedial agent whatsoever, whether in materia medica or among mineral waters. They are confidently recommended by some eminent medical men as a preventative of the disturbance and dangers incident to Pregnancy.

These waters, in cases of the dozen half gallon bottles, $5 per case at the Springs. Pamphlets sent to any address. Springs open for guests 1st day of June.

Talbott's Patent Spark Arrester.

THE INVENTION OF THE AGE.

Talbott's new Patent Spark Arrester is really the only perfect and reliable one, and is superseding all others in use. The great efficiency of this Arrester is attracting universal attention, and is being endorsed by the best mechanical engineers and insurance companies. Its prominent features are:

It does not destroy the draft.

It does not interfere with cleaning the tubes.

It will not choke up, and requires no cleaning.

It requires no direct dampers to be opened when raising steam (dampers being objectionable, as they may be left open and allow sparks to escape.)

It requires no water to extinguish sparks, which, by condensation, destroys the draft. Besides, when water is used, if neglected, the efficiency is destroyed by evaporation of the water, and the boiler is kept in a filthy condition.

It is simple and durable, and can be relied upon.

It can be attached to any boiler.

No planter should be without one of them. Insurance companies will insure gins and barns where the Talbott Engines and Spark Arresters are used at same rate as charged for water or horse-power.

Send for illustrated circulars and price list.

Weather Report.

WASHINGTON, Aug

For the South Atlantic and Gulf States, east to south winds; stationary or a slight rise in temperature with partly cloudy weather and areas of rain.

Thermometrical Table.

The thermometer, at L. Branson's bookstore, ranged as follows yesterday:

Index to New Advertisements.

JULIUS LEWIS & Co—Cook Stoves.
OTEY—Baths.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

——Revenue receipts yesterday were $4,014,10.

——A great number of diphtheria cases among the children of Raleigh.

——Captain T. F. Lee lost his youngest daughter yesterday. She died at 4 p. m.

——Twelve thousand dollars of old bonds exchanged at the State Treasury yesterday.

——There will be an excursion from Raleigh to Richmond on or about the first of September next.

——The Good Templars of Hickman lodge will have a public installation of officers next Tuesday night.

——The city geese had a "hog killing time" of its yesterday, swimming around in the young creeks, rivers and riverlets of Fayetteville street.

——Seventy-six Icelanders arrived in New York the other day, we would like to have a few down here during this hot weather, if there's anything in a name.

——There will be Mass at St. John's Catholic church this morning at 7 o'clock, Rev. Father Gross, Celebrant. The Mass to-morrow (Sunday) will be at 11 a. m.

——There was a man in this city yesterday who had no feet. He had a kind of a stub, that served him for feet, very round, and he seemed to walk with very little difficulty.

——The State Treasurer yesterday issued a drummmers' license to the following firms: Davenport & Morris, of Richmond, Va., and E. R. Fishblate & Co., Wilmington, N. C.

——Three little negro children were burned to death near Bell's Ferry in Pitt county the other day. They were left locked up in the house while their parents were away.

——Otey, the fashionable barber, has added to his establishment a splendid hot and cold bath house, and will be prepared to accommodate the public to an elegant bath from and after to-day.

——Messrs. Lawrence & Smith, Insurance Agents, yesterday paid R. E. Ellis, of this city, $2,500, being the amount of loss sustained by the burning of his residence on Hillsboro street, some time since, ——Mr. James P. Farrall, Nos. 48 and 50 Water street, New York, has a correspondent in this city who makes a too frequent use of one postage stamp. A letter addressed as above is held at the postoffice for a fresh stamp, the one now on it having been used before.

——The NEWS' special from Weldon says: "The Roanoke river, after having been very low for some weeks, has risen between five and six feet and is in fine boating order now. The rain fall for the last few days measuring two and three-fourth inches."

——The members of the Salisbury Street Baptist Church held a meeting last night for the purpose of electing a pastor to succeed Dr. Pritchard, recently elected president of Wake Forest College. The meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock without any definite action. They meet again on Monday night next.

——The old "oil woman" was out last evening on her usual promenade. She is called the "old oil woman," because she always carries an oil can around with her, and has two or three children who are constantly breaking their necks somehow or other, and four or five others who will get bit by snakes, mad dogs, etc., every other day. She never has any oil, and of course the lamp will not hold out to burn. She is an "old one" and generally manages to scoop in enough nickles to get six or eight "shorts" every night. One of our hardware merchants seemed to be very much affected (?) by her plaintive tales last evening.

Death.

Died on yesterday, August 1st. 1879, at the residence of T. F. and Blanche Lee, Lulie, aged three years. The funeral will take place from the first Presbyterian Church at 4 o'clock, p. m. to-day. Relatives and friends are invited to attend.

Justice's Court.

Justice Barbee had Charles Walton before him yesterday, charged with abandonment. The evidence disclosed the fact of his guilt, to the mind of the Justice, and counsel for the defendant prayed judgment in order to take an appeal, in consideration of which prayer the Justice fixed the fine at one penny and costs.

Death of Mr. Joseph Bragassa.

Mr. John A. Bragassa, one of our Fayetteville street confectioners, received a telegram last night that his father Mr. Joseph Bragassa of Lynchburg, Va., was dead. Mr. Joseph Bragassa was a leading confectioner of Lynchburg and had been engaged in this business for a great number of years. Mr. John A. Bragassa leaves to-day for Lynchburg.

No Good Preaching.

No man can do a good job of work, preach a good sermon, try a law suit well, doctor a patient, or write a good article when he feels miserable and dull, with sluggish brain and unsteady nerves, and none should make the attempt in such a condition when it can be so easily and cheaply removed by a little Hop Bitters. A New Form of Investment.

The influx of wealth into this country after the past seven years of dullness is beginning to increase the speculative feeling in all channels of trade. Already the business centres are lively with the praises of mining, manufacturing, railroad, real estate and other speculations; but strange to say, so great is the well deserved confidence in the strict integrity characterizing every action of the managers of the celebrated Louisiana Lottery that its tickets for the monthly grand drawings which cost two dollars each are a favorites purchase of the leading bankers and brokers in all the large cities. M. A. Dauphin, P. O. Box 692, New Orleans, La., or at No. 319 Broadway, New York city, will give all desired information.

Marble and Granite Monuments and Tombs.

The finest work in the South. Work set up in cemeteries cheaper than will be loaded on cars North, thereby saving double first-class freight, risk of breakage, &c. All kinds of cement for sale. Wolfe's stone burial cases to be seen at Henry Brown's and marble yard, corner Morgan and Blount streets, Raleigh, N. C.
CAYTON & WOLFE.

How Cheap!

Four Ball Croquet sets for only $1,00 at J. C. Brewster's where you can find all the latest novelties in the house furnishing line. A full stock of Fruit Jars, Preserving Kettles, etc. The latest style of Oil Stoves, the best and cheapest cook stove for summer use. Ice Cream Freezers low down to close out stock.

You can now stop at the Grand Central Hotel, on Broadway, New York, the American plan for $2.50, or $3.00 per day; or you can, on the European plan, take your breakfast there, in the morning, take your lunch down town, or dine with a friend, and your room at the Hotel will only cost you $1.00 per day, and upward, and meals are also provided, at moderate prices, at the elegant Restaurant attached to the Hotel.

Yadkin College.

This institution, advertised in the NEWS, opens August 14th. Board $6.75 per month. Tuition from $12.50 to $20 per term. Mr. Simpson, President of the College, now in the city, will answer any questions addressed to him at Yadkin College, North Carolina.

BOVINE, MISSISSIPPI, April 22, 1879. —The following correspondence will explain itself: A. WADDILL, ESQ., LYNCHBURG, VA.—Dear Sir: Observing a certificate from you in reference to the "Iron and Alum Mass," of the Seven Springs, in Washington county, Va., in relation to its efficacy for Liver Diseases, would you have the kindness to inform me whether you used the "Mass" or the "Water;" also, a description of the symptoms and such other information as you may deem pertinent. I am a long-time sufferer with Liver Complaint, and naturally feel very anxious on the subject of a remedy that will afford me even temporary relief. Your early reply will greatly oblige, very respectfully, WILLIAM BARR.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 12, 1879.—WM. BARR, Esq., Bovine, Mississippi—Dear Sir: Your inquiry in regard to the "Liver case," which was effectually cured in my family from using the "Seven Springs Mass," is before me. The case referred to in my certificate was that of my wife's sister, who is now in her 80th year, and has been a member of my family for the last 27 years. She had been afflicted with Liver Disease for 30 years, sometimes almost dying with pains in the back, breast, and heaviness of the chest, heart-burns (intensely), sick stomach, vomiting, &c. I procured a few bottles of the "Mass" for her, and very soon after she began the use of it, her health commenced to get better, and she continued steadily to improve, and at this writing, so old, seemingly in as good health as a person who had never been afflicted with these diseases. She attributes her cure entirely to the efficacy of the "Seven Springs Mass." I regard it one of the greatest family medicines we have access to, not only for such diseases as above indicated, but for various other complaints for which it is recommended. Hoping these answers satisfactory, I am, very truly, A. WADDILL, Proprietor Lynchburg News.

62 MADISON AVENUE,
NEW YORK, April 11, 1878.
MR. ALFRED SPEER,—Dear Sir: The visit which I made last year to your vineyards, wine-presses and vaults at Passaic, N. J., satisfied me thoroughly that the wines manufactured by you are pure and unadulterated, and the very best that can be offered to the public for medical uses.
Acting upon my favorable impressions at the time, I have since recommended the Port Wine; more particularly in my practice, and am satisfied, with marked benefits to my patients.
There can be no better proof to the doubting mind, as to the Wine being made of the finest Oporto Grape, than a visit to the acres of land covered with the vine bearing the luxuriant fruit. Wishing you success in your praiseworthy enterprise,
I remain respectfully yours,

Cuticura
REMEDIES
Infallibly Cure all Skin and Scalp Diseases, Scaly Eruptions, Itchings, and Irritations

The testimonials of permanent cures of Skin and Scalp Diseases which have been the torture of a lifetime, by the Cuticura Remedies, are more wonderful than any methods or remedies known to the medical profession.
Cuticura Resolvent, a powerful Blood Purifier, is the only purifying agent which finds its way into the circulating fluid and thence through the oil and sweat glands to the surface of the skin, thus destroying the poisonous elements with which these vessels have been daily charged.
Cuticura, The Great Skin Cure, applied externally, arrests all unnatural or morbid growth which cover the surface of the diseased glands and tubes with Scaly, Itching, and Irritating Humors, speedily it removes them, leaving the pores open, healthy, and free from diseased particles of matter.
Thus internally and externally do these great remedies act in conjunction, performing cures that have astonished the most noted physicians of the day.

Salt Rheum for 30 Years
On the Head, Face, and Greater Part of the Body, Cured.

Messrs. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen, I have been a great sufferer with Salt Rheum for 30 years, commencing in my head and face and extending over the greater part of my body. I have taken gallons of medicines for the blood of different kinds and tried good physicians, all of which did me no good, and I came to the conclusion that I could not be cured. But a friend called my attention to an article in the Union on skin diseases, and I got a box of Cuticura. The first application was a great relief and the third took the scales all off, and I felt like a new man. I have used three 50-cent boxes and my skin is smooth and I consider myself entirely cured. Hoping that this may be seen by some one afflicted as I have been (if there is any) is my earnest wish. And I cheerfully recommend it to all persons afflicted with like diseases.
Yours truly,
B. WILSON LORD.
AGAWAM, MASS., Sept. 9, 1878.

The Cuticura Soap should be used for cleansing all diseased surfaces, as most soaps are injurious to the skin.

LEPROSY.
A Modern Miracle. Astonishing Results from the use of Cuticura.

Messrs. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen.—We have a case of Leprosy in our poorhouse which is being cured by your Cuticura remedies. The county had employed all of our doctors and had sent to New York for advice, but to no avail.
The patient commenced using the Cuticura and immediately began getting better. He had been confined to his bed for two and one half years. Had not had his clothes on during this time. Last week he dressed for the first time.
When he walked, there would at least one quart of scales come off of him.
This happened every day.
We think it is a wonderful cure.
We do not think he is cured, but he is in a fair way to be cured to say the least.
Yours truly,
DUNNING BROTHERS,
Druggists and Booksellers.
ALLEGAN, MICH., Feb. 11, 1879.
NOTE.—Messrs. Dunning Br
